

I agree that this proposal as written would best simplify and modernize the FCC Amateur radio licensing system. With the advent of new technologies requiring Morse code for an amateur radio license is not furthering the interest and growth of amateur radio. Many qualified operators are discouraged by the Morse code requirements and are losing interest in radio. Amateur radio needs the interest of the brightest and qualified persons for its continued success as an emergency communication system.